Campaign Chronicles

Volume 5 • September 22, 2023

As we forge our future path together, we must thank those that have been the backbone of our local community and economy, building from what we have, ensuring their future is secure, while we welcome new opportunities that will allow us to achieve new successes together.

Redevelopment

As the city continues to grow, we must support our core, we must support those that have been part of Utica - paying taxes, creating jobs, who have remained resilient throughout the toughest of times while holding on for the future.

Redevelopment is a good thing, but how we proceed is just as important as what we do.

As we forge our future path together, we must thank those that have been the backbone of our local community and economy, building from what we have, ensuring their future is secure, while we welcome new opportunities that will allow us to achieve new successes together.

Conversations with Mark & Mike:

How will you keep the tax rate down?

- Excerpt question from Mark Harf

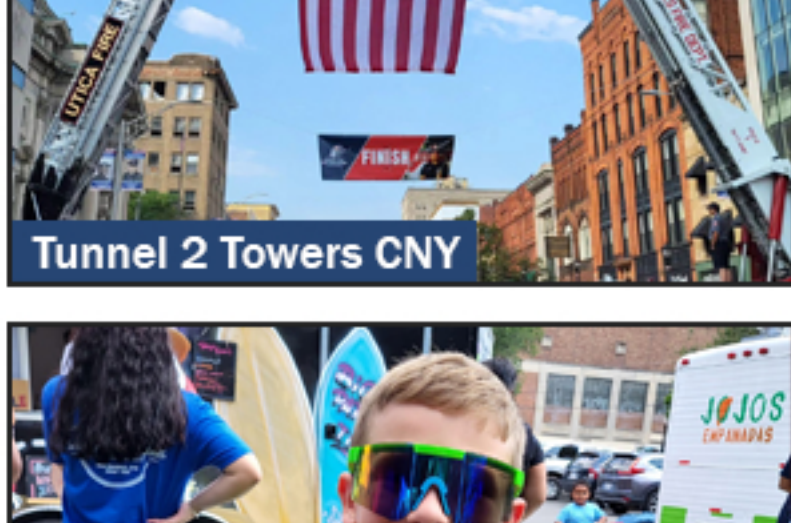

"Something has to be done with future political leadership to say how do we tie this region together better so that the governor doesn't misunderstand it, so business leaders don't misunderstand it ... What thoughts do you have on how do we start to create a much more cohesive story beyond the work that's already been done?"

- Another inquiry from Mark
